Conference Theme

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) Division of Diabetes Translation (DDT) Conference 2005 theme is “Diabetes Prevention and Control: Learning, Connecting and Transforming.”

Conference Goals

- □ Explore science, policy, education, program planning, implementation, and evaluation to enhance public health approaches and strategies to prevent and control diabetes.
- Increase knowledge and awareness of successful, cost-effective, public and private diabetes programs.
- □ Present innovative strategies to increase awareness of diabetes and how to prevent its complications.
- □ Provide opportunities for skill-building, information-sharing, and networking.

Attendees

CDC’s Diabetes Translation Conference 2005 will bring together a wide range of local, state, federal, and territorial governmental agencies and private-sector diabetes partners. Our main constituents are the state-based diabetes prevention and control program (DPCP) representatives, their partners, and the following:

- □ Federal, state, and local public health professionals
- □ Managers, directors, and executives from affiliated health professional associations
- Health professional associations and consultant partners in prevention and control activities and programs
- Managers, directors, and executives from health management organizations
- □ Physicians, nurses, nutritionists, dietitians, pharmacists, and health educators
- □ Nongovernment health professionals
- □ Representatives from special interest groups and industry
- □ Academic and research staffs from educational institutions
- Undergraduate and post-graduate students in health-related fields

Presentations — Formats

Plenary Presentation: A general session for all attendees presented by a keynote speaker or panel of presenters

Concurrent Presentation: One of several presentations held during a session period includes oral presentations, discussion groups, workshops, or networking sessions.

Poster Presentation: Subject matter displayed on poster boards for the entire conference. Presenters will be available to discuss their posters at scheduled times.

Presentations — Categories

The conference sessions are presented in categories that address specific policy issues and programs that contribute to diabetes control and prevention. The presentation categories are as follows:

Communication, Media, and Technology
Disparities
Epidemiology – Surveillance and Research
Partnership/Collaboration
Primary Prevention
Public Health System Improvement

These presentations focus on strategies that –

- □ influence the level and quality of diabetes care in health systems;
- □ involve and inform communities;
- assess early detection and screening programs;
- demonstrate strategies and projects to improve health disparities;
- □ provide process, impact, and outcome evaluations;
- □ discuss program coordination and partnership experiences.
